

ROMANTIC WREATH

“ A wreath is not just for Winter, Yule or Christmas decorating, they can be for any time of year or festivity. I love to reflect the seasons or celebrations in our home with different types of decorations and I have a particular fondness for wreaths.

So here we have a beaded and bejewelled wreath for Valentine's day, a Wedding or Engagement celebration although it will be equally as lovely in your bedroom all year round for that touch of romance. ”

You will need:

Small willow wreath,
Transparent and hollow plastic heart,
Feathers,
Spool of silver jewellery wire,
Assortment of clear and pearlescent beads,
1 metre fuchsia chiffon ribbon,
White satin cord/piping/ribbon.

To make:

1. Tie length of satin cord through the top of the wreath for hanging.
2. Thread all the beads on to the silver wire, keeping the wire attached the spool to prevent the beads sliding off. Then securing the end of the wire around a twig with a few twists, begin to wind the beaded strand around the wreath as many times as you choose while feeding beads along the wire a few at a time and unwinding the spool as you go. Make sure you disperse the beads evenly around the wreath during winding. Once you have finished winding, snip the wire from spool, pouring any left over beads on the wire back into a container.
3. Fill the hollow heart with the feathers and close. Thread a length of ribbon through the loop in the top then through the centre of the wreath, tying in a bow around the base of the satin cord to secure.
4. Tie sections of ribbon round the wreath and trim ends in a V shape to prevent fraying.
